OUR victories are wen through the help of the holy spirit. Who can resist this power? Too often we imagine that we are able to do things that we could not do without His help. What then can we do? Meet every kind of opposition in the power of the spirit. Let us lay hold on the things that are pleasing to God and do with our might what sur hands find to do, and all will be well.—Rev. J. E. Davis, East El Paso Baptist church.

John was a fearless preacher. He did a bold thing in denouncing Herod's wickedness. He lost his head but saved his soul. It is dangerous to denounce spiritual wickedness in high places.—Rev. J. B. Greever, St. Paul's Lutheran church.

"The Sabbath is to be sanctified by wholly resting all that day even from such wordly employments and recreations as are lawful on other days, and spending the whole time in the public and private exercise of God's worship, except so much as is to be taken up in the works of necessity and mercy," says the Westminster confession.—Rev. Watson M. Fairley, Westminster Presidents

"Haven't time" is the constant cry of these pressing days. Everybody burdened to the breaking point and still we have no time to reinforce the moral fiber of our souls. What is time for, anyway? "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."—Rev. Milo Atkinson, First Christian church

The gospel of Jesus Christ is the greatest factor in the civilization of the world. It is no fetish that claims by its magic to accomplish wonderful things to astonish the gaze and satisfy the curiosity of seekers after signa; neither is it modeled after the philosophy of the sages, but it is a mighty power—the power of God—in the redemption of mankind, and the propagation of its elemental factors, faith, hope and love, produce results which lead to the highest type of civilization—Rev. W. S. Huggett, Highland Park Methodist church.

Friendship is one of the finest things in the world. A true friend is price-less, but that friend who is a friend when all is well and deserts you at the first sign of trouble is vanity and vexation of spirit. It must be so with Christ. There are many who would be his friends and friends to his church as long as everything runs smoothly, but at the first sign of trouble they desert. They are unworthy of the name Christian.—Rev. L. O. Vermillion, Highland Park Raptist church

Service is the watchword of the hour. It is the standard of valuation alike for king, statesman, citizen, institution or class. History has indicated that saying of the Master, "He that would be greatest among you, let him be the servant of all."—Rev. Rufus C. Baker, Orchard Park Methodist church.

This is no time to lower moral standards. Through years of struggle we have come this far up the mountain side. When we must resort to shoddy methods to maintain either our benevolent work or our patriotism, it is well that our conception of benevolence and patriotism be reconstructed.—Rev. Heury Van Valkenburgh, First Methodist Episcopal church.

Two men went out into the mountains. The one took a picture with his camera. The other painted the scene upon his canvas. When they returned, there was much dispute as to who had obtained the truer representation. What do you think? Your opinion will give an exact index of your ability to enter into the life of the spirit.—Rev. Dwight J. Bradley, First Congregational church.

Does God ever ask His people to do an impossibility? Yes, you will remember when there were 5000 men, besides women and children to be fed. Jesus said to His disciples, "Give ye them to eat," and they, taking five loaves and two fishes, all they had, and Jesus blessed them and the multitude was fed and 12 basketsfull were left over. So let no one be discouraged because he cannot do much. Let each one of us turn the little we have over to Jesus, and with His blessing we shall be able to do the impossible.—Rev. C. H. Mitchelmore, Altura Presbyterian church.

In these trying times of readjustment at home and abroad, on land and In these trying times of readjustment at home and abroad, on land and on sea, we need no other message for the spiritual interests of men than God's inspired word. Not a new gospel but the old gospel with a mightier emphasis from the pulpit and in the lives of Christians is sufficient to meet the present colossal demands in the hearts and consciences of men in their relation to the eternal future. If the pulpit rings true in its attitude to the gospel we may hope to see the churches loyal to the book. What a responsibility resis on the preacher!—Rev. J. F. Williams, First Baptist church.

We find today the people of this world are lost and drowned in the earthly pleasures of life, a true picture of the end of the world as Christ describes it in Luke 17, 6-30, when He will suddenly appear (verse 24) to judge the unbelievers and redeem the believers and take them to Himself and eternal rest.— Rev. J. H. C. Sieck, Zion's Lutheran
